

Travelex Globe Customer Saving Example

To make it easier to compare the Travelex Globe Sterling prepaid card with credit and debit cards, we've put together some simple holiday scenarios and typical fees and charges associated with them. These reflect different types of trips and the amount that a card would be used for both withdrawals of cash from an ATM and purchases such as meals, drinks, car hire and shopping.

Calculations were then made using the following criteria for the different types of trip:

Frequent Traveller: 12 x 3-day trips a year, 12 x £100 cash withdrawals, 75 x purchases totalling £9,840

Family holiday: Family of four on 10-day holiday, 4 x £150 cash withdrawals, 26 x purchases totalling £1,380

Backpacker: 3-month trip, 12 x £100 cash withdrawals, 212 x purchases totalling £5,320

Notes:

* Includes initial card fee of £9.99 – includes FREE additional card, both valid for 5 years. Formula for Credit Card = Cost multiplied by currency conversion fee, multiplied by frequency, plus frequency multiplied by Cash Advance fee and one months' interest. Formula for Debit Card = Cost multiplied by currency conversion fee multiplied by frequency multiplied by usage or cash withdrawal fee. Note that some debit card issuers do not charge both a conversion and usage fee. Our "Typical Credit Card" and "Typical Debit Card" comparisons are based on average fees and charges taken from a number of leading credit and debit card providers. In order to more accurately compare our prepaid Globe card with your own credit or debit card(s), please consult the fees and charges contained in your card issuer's terms and conditions. These comparison tables were created using data obtained on 29th May, 2014 and information was verified as correct at that time.
